BUBONIC PLAGUE.

HOW TO DESTROY RATS!!

BUBONIC PLAGUE is a Disease among Rats and Mice, and they being migrating animals the infection is carried from house to house. It matters not how perfect the Sanitary Arrangements may be, if Rats and Mice are permitted to remain about the Premises the disease can be contracted. The best safeguard is to destroy Rats and Mice.

NEWTON'S RAT CHEESE.

This is the only preparation ever compounded which will effectually rid your house of these pests, as well as keep the premises free from them.

'All that is necessary to do is to sprinkle the powder about where rats and mice frequent, inside the holes or between floors. The rats eat it and then seek the sewers for water, when death is produced.

With NEWTON'S RAT CHEESE it is not necessary to mix with any other substance to induce the animals to eat it, but sprinkle about according to directions, and the Rat Cheese does the rest.

DESDEMONA'S FEET.

An Amusing Incident. An amusing story is told in " McClure's reference to a curious incident which once occurred in an American theatre during the performance of "Othollo," The writer says: The actors had reached the last act. The hed stood in the centre of a shallow alcoye, heavily curtained. These hangings were bequal up at the leginning of the net, and were supposed to fall to the floor, completely concealing the bed and its occupant after the murder. The actor had long before become again Shakespeare's Othello. We had seen him tortured, racked, and played spon by the malignant lage ; seen bim while perplexed in the extreme, iraseible, cholerie, sullen, mapsa; but now, as with tense nerves we waited for the carastrophe, he was truly formidable. The great tragedy moved on. Dedeniona's piteous entreaties had been choked in her slim throat, the smothering injund by illness, and should always be used pillow held in place with mercilessstrongth. Then at Familia's disconcetting knock and demand for admission, Officile had let down and closely drawn the two curtains. But also and alackaday? though they were thick and rich and wide, they failed to reach thu ther by a good fent's breadth, a fact unnotieed by the star. EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The public of Hongkong, or that section of it which interests itself most in the HONGKONG, public life of the Colony, will be pleased to note the gue of activity that have marked the Covernment during the past few months. How much of this may be due to the Chartered Bank at Colombo. Dysentery public clamour of last year, it is impossible to say; but whatever the cause it is welcome. Mr Osbert Chadwick and Professor Simpson, the two experts sent out by the Colonial Office in respouse to the joint application (let us say) of His Excellency Sir Henry Blake and the signdocies of the public petition, have arrived in 7the Colony; and measures are now being taken, we may assume, to ascertain the causes of the repeated epidemics of plague in the Colony and the remedies that should be adopted to minimise the ravages of the disease, and, we hope, to cradicate it from Hongkong, so far as that is within the power of human agency. It is too soon to congratulate the Colony upon the Channel Squadren. having this expert assistance. It will Noon - Meeting of Shareholders of The he time enough to do so when these gentlemen submit their proposals to public criticism. But it is satisfactory to know they are here, that they are to consider proposals for the improvement of the sanitary condition of the Colony, and that the weight of their recommendations may induce the Government to introduce remedial measures.

> During the plague epidemic of last year, and before and since, it has been pointed out in the local newspapers that the medical and sanitary staffs were maternanuel, not in epidemic times only but during normal times. It will also be remembered that the shipping firms raised an agitation sometime ago For an additional medical officer for the polt. The Government appointed Committee of medical and business men to enquire into the matter: but before the Committee's report was drawn upthe Government had decided to increase the medical staff practically upon the lines suggested by the Committe. One addition is made to the Medical Depart ment ashore. The Committee recom mends an additional Medical Officer for the Port, theservices of both to be devoted entirely to the Government, but as there is not sufficient work to keep these gentlemen fully employed, in normal times, they will aid the Medient staff under Dr Atkinson. This is the most important change recommend ed by the Committee, and the shipping interests will be satisfied with the out come of their agitation. But the Committee also recommends what is in effect the creation of a new Department when it reports that 'the Sanitary Department should be under the administration of the Medical Officer of Health, subject to the control of the Saintary Board. This is by no means on, and the Sanitary Board either abolished or reconstructed to meet the new con-

Another sign of progress is the acquiescence of the Government in the claims of the European residents for educational facilities for their children. While due credit must be given to Bishop Hoaro for putting himself at the head of the agitation, no inconsiderable share must be accorded to His Excellency the Governer and the Inspector of Schools for the hearty and sympathetic manner in which they have supported the public petition. We know that Sir Henry Blake was in harmony with the movement, and since he assumed office. Mr Irving has devoted himself to his duties with an ardour and success, which, we must confess, we did not expect. The result is self-evident; and we have no hesitation in saying that if no check is imposed by the Colonial Office in London the long-lookedfor reforms in the Education Department will be effected at an early date, to the benefit alike of the European and Asiatic children, and the educational work of the Colony will no longer be a repreach to the Department and the Government. activity which the Government has shown on this and other questions of local interest of late is welcome, and we hope it is indicative of a further energiang of the Government departments to bring them up

The Coronation.

The King has been graciously pleased to intimate his definite decision, not only as to the coute of the Commation pro cession, but also as to the date of the procussion-two points of great public interest on which there has been a good deal of misunderstanding and confusion. It now officially announced that the route of the procession on the day following' the Coronation will be the same as that followed by the Jubilee procession in 1897. Th procession will, therefore, take place Friday, June 27. In addition to the 40,000 on 50,000 troops to be drafted into London for the Coronation, there will be a Naval Brigade of 1,750 officers, 170 Naval cadets, and 1,501 petty officers and men. The proposal to legally prodain June 27, the day after the Coronation, a public holiday as well as June 28, so that all classes may participate in the King's great procession through London, is meeting with extmordinary favour. The keen desire of Americans to be present at the Coronation is evidenced by the reports enormous advance bookings for all Transatlantic steamships.

Rosebery and Chamberlain. The future of Lord Rosebery and Mr Chamberlain is once more the leading topic of the new number of the Fortnightly Review. The feeling, so far as I can see it, is no less strong now than before the event, that in accepting the invitation of the Dowager the ladies made an enormous mistake. They forgot the dignity and the honour of their nations as well as of themselves; forgot the sufferings of their murdered sisters at the hands of their host; forgot the effect of the condoning of such wickedness on the future: forgot the things which indicate that the same spirit of destruction still exists and is secretly preparing for other deeds-deeds similar to the past. > (From Our Own Correspondent.) CANTON, February 28.

Kwangsi is so far removed from the sear if government that it seems to be always in a chronic state of rebellion. For a long time, robbers have been in the ascendancy in that province. On the second day of the Chinese now year, at Wat Lam Fu, the rebel leader, or, as he might be more appropriately called, the robber chief. raised his flag. The flag bears the motto rob the rich and succour the poor. Theretically it is a kind of socialistic movement; practically it is organized robbery. There is no likelihood of the first part of the motto being forgotten, but the poor have suffered equally with the rich. As the robber army has swept along, they have completely despoiled the people, money, grain and live stock, every thing has been carried away, .A force of about eighteen hundred men left Canton three days ago to restore order in Kwangsi. As it will take two or three weeks for these men to get to the scope of the outbreak, that will leave planty of time for the robbers tandjust the inequalities in the social scale according to their ideal. When they have done this to their hearts content. they can retire to the mountains and bid defiance to the government troops. This has often been done before, and there is no reason why it should not be repeated in this instance.
